

Living with Heart Failure? Participate in Our Research Study

About Our Study

Researchers at the University of Calgary's Center for Health Informatics invite people living with heart failure to participate in our research study

By sharing your experiences, you'll help us develop a tool to predict hospitalization and enable more effective discharge planning.

What Does Participation Involve?

- Completing two separate one-hour online interviews, conducted several months apart.
- Answering questions related to your perspectives on clinical decision support tools

Why Should I Participate?

- Help improve future care for people with heart failure
- Contribute to research aimed at decreasing hospital readmissions

Who Can Participate?

- Over 18 years of age
- History of heart failure
- Hospitalization within the past 5 years
- Must be Alberta resident
